Legislative Drafting and the Legislative Process: Laws, Regulations and Bylaws

Ref: 317_12501 Date: 12 – 16 July 2027 Location: London - Central London four-star Fees: 23000 SAR

Introduction:

Legislative drafting often breaks down between the policy decision and the enacted text: instructions arrive vague, definitions drift between articles, secondary rules exceed the powers of the parent law and nobody plans how the provisions will be enforced or reviewed. This Core Concept course takes government legal advisers, regulators and policy staff through the legislative process from drafting instructions to enactment, consolidation and post-implementation review. Participants draft and scrutinise real legislative texts and leave with a Draft Bill and Implementing Regulation Pack containing instructions, an explanatory note and a scrutiny checklist.

Course Objectives:

- Map a legislative proposal through each stage of the legislative cycle, from policy approval to enactment and entry into force
- Convert a policy decision into written drafting instructions that settle purpose, scope, powers, offences and transitional arrangements
- Draft primary and secondary legislative provisions with consistent definitions, sound article structure and accurate cross-references
- Test draft legislation for vires, conflict with higher-ranking legislation and consistency with the existing statute book
- Design enforcement, sanctions, commencement and review provisions that a regulator can apply in practice
- Prepare consolidated and amending texts that keep the statute book accessible after repeated change

Target Audience:

- Government legal advisers who draft or vet laws, regulations and bylaws for ministries and agencies
- Regulatory staff responsible for issuing implementing regulations, rules and technical requirements
- Policy staff who commission legislation and brief drafters on the intended effect of a measure
- Legislative affairs and cabinet support staff who track bills through approval stages
- Legal review and scrutiny staff who check drafts for legality, consistency and form before issue
- Codification and legal information staff who maintain consolidated texts of legislation

- Catch regulations that exceed their enabling powers or clash with other legislation before they are issued
- Work through licensing and environmental cases with legal advisers and regulators from different sectors and legal systems

Conclusion:

Legislation works when its text carries the policy intent faithfully, sits correctly within the hierarchy of legislation and can be enforced and reviewed. The course moves from the legislative cycle and the ranking of laws and regulations, through drafting instructions, regulatory appraisal and consultation, to article architecture, definitions, amending formulas, scrutiny and enforcement design. The final day applies these methods to licensing and environmental cases and to consolidation, producing a Draft Bill and Implementing Regulation Pack for use in participants' own legislative work.
