Introduction

Most organisations collect more ideas than they can handle. Suggestion schemes and online portals fill up, evaluation stalls, contributors hear nothing back and the few ideas that are approved rarely reach implementation. The result is lost value and disengaged employees. This Core Concept course gives managers a complete method for managing ideas from proposal to implementation, based on ISO 56007 guidance for managing opportunities and ideas. Working through cross-sector cases, participants build an Idea-to-Implementation Playbook covering campaigns, evaluation, piloting, recognition and benefit tracking.

Course Objectives

- Diagnose why an existing suggestion scheme or idea platform is failing to convert ideas into results
- Design an idea management process aligned to ISO 56007, from opportunity framing to implementation
- Run targeted idea campaigns with clear challenge statements, eligibility rules and timelines
- Evaluate and select ideas with transparent scoring criteria and calibrated panel decisions
- Convert selected ideas into business cases, pilots and implementation plans with named owners
- Track benefits and recognise contributors in ways that sustain participation

Target Audience

- Managers responsible for suggestion schemes, idea platforms or innovation programmes
- Excellence, quality and continuous improvement specialists handling employee proposals
- Department managers who review, sponsor and implement ideas from their teams
- Strategy and planning analysts who link ideas to organisational priorities
- HR and engagement professionals designing recognition and reward schemes
- Project and portfolio managers turning approved ideas into funded work

Why Attend This Course

- Return with an Idea-to-Implementation Playbook ready to apply to the next idea campaign
- Give contributors timely, credible decisions so participation grows rather than fades
- Stop approved ideas stalling between selection and delivery by assigning owners, pilots and funding routes
- Compare idea schemes with managers from other sectors and countries

Conclusion

Ideas create value only when an organisation can judge them fairly and carry the best ones through to results. This course moves from auditing current idea performance, through ISO 56007 and a clear lifecycle workflow, to campaign design, evaluation, piloting and benefit tracking. The final day applies these tools to cross-sector cases and produces an Idea-to-Implementation Playbook that participants take back to their organisation to relaunch or strengthen the way ideas are handled.
