Social Selling for B2B Sales: Prospecting, Buying Committees and Pipeline

Ref: 635_18236 Date: 12 – 16 September 2027 Location: Jeddah - Corniche four-star Fees: 19500 SAR

Introduction:

B2B buyers now research suppliers, compare peers' views and form a shortlist on professional networks long before they speak to a salesperson, yet many sales teams still rely on cold calls and generic connection requests that go unanswered. Social selling closes that gap by turning professional networks into a disciplined prospecting and pipeline channel. This Core Concept course trains account executives and business development staff to map buying committees, act on trigger events, start relevant conversations and convert them into meetings logged in CRM. Participants build a 30-Day Social Selling Plan for a named-account list.

Course Objectives:

- Position social selling within the B2B buying journey and identify where buyers form shortlists before contacting sales
- Rewrite a professional profile so it addresses buyer problems, shows customer proof and invites a conversation
- Map target accounts and buying committees on professional networks and set listening alerts for trigger events
- Engage stakeholders with insight-led content and personalised messages that move a connection to a booked meeting
- Run employee advocacy and measure social selling activity and sourced and influenced pipeline with a clean CRM handover
- Apply etiquette and data privacy rules to prospect research, messaging and outreach automation

Target Audience:

- Sales staff who own a territory or named-account list and a new-business target
- Business development staff responsible for opening conversations with organisations that are not yet clients
- Key account staff who need wider coverage across the buying committee inside existing clients
- Pre-sales and solution staff who support client conversations with subject expertise
- Sales development staff who qualify inbound interest and book first meetings

Conclusion:

Social selling works when it is treated as a sales discipline with targets rather than occasional posting. The course moves from the B2B buying journey and buying committee roles, through buyer-centric profiles, account mapping and trigger-event listening, to insight-led engagement, personalised message sequences, employee advocacy, pipeline attribution, CRM handover and privacy rules. The final day rehearses outreach through role-play and produces a 30-Day Social Selling Plan for a fictional named-account list, ready to run from the first week back at work.
