Ref: 639_18276 Date: 28 June – 9 July 2027 Location: Paris - Right Bank business hotel Fees: 42300 SAR

Introduction:

Social services managers are expected to run fair access, safe casework and measurable results with stretched teams, yet many units still work from unclear eligibility rules, informal referral routes, uneven caseload supervision and evaluation that counts contacts rather than change for families. This Core Concept course equips managers and supervisors to organise social services management around a clear case management cycle, sound practice standards and practical programme evaluation. Participants review real case files, referral data and cost figures, and leave with a Service Improvement and Evaluation Plan for a social service programme.

Course Objectives:

- Organise a social service around defined service models, rights-based and strengths-based practice and written service standards
- Set eligibility, intake and referral rules and run the case management cycle from assessment to closure
- Supervise caseloads and social work staff using structured allocation, reflective supervision and wellbeing checks
- Plan services from needs evidence and design programmes with a theory of change, logic model and results indicators
- Choose process, outcome or impact evaluation designs and calculate cost per outcome for value for money decisions
- Produce a Service Improvement and Evaluation Plan ready for board and funder review

Target Audience:

- Managers who head social care, family support or welfare service units
 - Supervisors who allocate caseloads and oversee the practice of social workers and counsellors
 - Programme managers who design and run social development and guidance programmes
 - Quality and performance leads who monitor service standards and beneficiary outcomes
 - Grant and partnership managers in charities and foundations who fund or commission social services

Conclusion:

Social services earn trust when people reach the right help quickly, casework is supervised and safe, and managers can show what changed and at what cost. Week one builds the service itself: models, standards, access, the case management cycle, supervision and records. Week two adds needs-led planning, programme logic, governance, beneficiary voice, commissioning, indicators and evaluation economics. The final day produces a Service Improvement and Evaluation Plan that participants take back to guide the next review of their service.
