Ref: 1976_29283 Date: 28 March – 1 April 2027 Location: Jeddah - Corniche four-star Fees: 19500 SAR

Introduction:

Corporate trust and escrow services, covering escrow agent, trustee and paying agent roles, is a 1-week course for bank and trust company officers, transaction counsel and control staff that ends with a Corporate Trust and Escrow Service Plan for a case organisation. Institutions face claims when release conditions are vague, escrow parties are poorly verified or trustees act without a mandate. Nominees already administer or review escrow, agency or trustee mandates, and the course is taught through case studies on escrow agreements, trust deeds and payment files. CoreConcept Training Center delivers this corporate trust and escrow services course.

Course Objectives:

- Distinguish escrow agent, bond and sukuk trustee, paying agent, facility agent and security agent mandates by duty, standard of care and liability exposure
- Draft and review escrow agreements with clear account structures, release conditions and termination provisions for real estate, M&A and project deals
- Administer trustee and paying agent duties across bond and sukuk issues, including holder communications and payment runs
- Operate facility and security agency tasks such as notices, rate setting, lender distributions and enforcement instructions
- Apply onboarding, sanctions and payment authentication controls to escrow and agency accounts
- Build a corporate trust and escrow service plan with a fee schedule, control matrix and liability safeguards

Why Attend This Course:

- Present a Corporate Trust and Escrow Service Plan to the head of corporate trust and the operational risk lead for approval
- Decide whether a requested release, holder instruction or new mandate falls within the agreed terms before acting on it
- Avoid misdirected escrow payments, disputed releases and uncovered liability claims that expose the institution to losses
- Equip operations and legal colleagues with release checklists, onboarding templates and fee schedules developed in the case studies

Conclusion:

Back at work, the participant presents the Corporate Trust and Escrow Service Plan to the head of corporate trust, the legal adviser and the operational risk lead. They use it to decide which escrow, trustee and agency mandates to accept, how to price them, which release and payment controls to apply and which liability safeguards to insist on in new agreements. After the first mandates are opened under the plan, the unit should review release turnaround, payment exceptions, onboarding findings and fee recovery against the baseline and adjust its acceptance criteria.

Frequently Asked Questions FAQ:

What should participants know before a corporate trust and escrow services course?

Participants should already open, administer or review escrow accounts, trustee mandates or agency roles, or draft related agreements. Bringing an anonymised escrow agreement, trust deed or fee schedule from their own institution helps the case studies reflect real practice.

How does a corporate trust and escrow services course differ from a securities custody course?

It focuses on acting as a neutral escrow agent, trustee or agent under a written mandate: release conditions, holder instructions, agency notices and liability. Custody courses cover safekeeping, settlement and corporate actions for investment portfolios rather than mandate-based fiduciary roles.

Why do corporate trust and escrow services depend on precisely drafted release conditions?

An escrow agent may only act on what the agreement states. Vague milestones, missing evidence requirements or unclear joint instruction rules force the agent to choose between parties, which invites disputes, frozen funds and liability claims.

What do participants take back from the corporate trust and escrow services course?

Participants take back a Corporate Trust and Escrow Service Plan for a case organisation, with a mandate acceptance checklist, release condition templates, a control matrix for payments and onboarding, a fee schedule and liability clause guidance.
