Ref: 2006_29579 Date: 7 – 11 December 2026 Location: London - Central London four-star Fees: 23000 SAR

Introduction:

Victim and witness support services, covering needs assessment, witness care and special measures, form this 1-week course for prosecution, police, court and NGO victim-support staff, ending with a Victim and Witness Care Service Plan for a case organisation. Justice agencies lose testimony and public trust when victims receive no updates, witnesses arrive at hearings unprepared, and vulnerable people give evidence without the protective arrangements they need. Nominees already contact victims or witnesses and learn through case studies built on anonymised contact logs, witness profiles and referral records. CoreConcept Training Center delivers this victim and witness support services course.

Course Objectives:

- Assess victim needs across safety, health, practical, emotional and information domains and record a tiered support level for each person
- Conduct trauma-informed first contact and ongoing updates that limit secondary victimisation and keep victims informed of case progress
- Prepare witnesses for testimony through court familiarisation, hearing-day support and post-hearing debriefs
- Identify vulnerable and intimidated witnesses and request special measures such as screens, live link, intermediaries and pre-recorded evidence
- Build referral pathways with health, counselling, legal aid and community agencies and guide victims through restitution and compensation claims
- Set service standards, feedback channels and performance indicators for a victim and witness care unit

Target Audience:

- Witness care staff in prosecution services who keep witnesses informed and ready for trial
 - Police victim liaison staff who make first contact after a report and pass on case updates

Why Attend This Course:

- Deliver a Victim and Witness Care Service Plan for a case organisation to the head of the victim support or witness care unit
- Decide which support tier, special measure or referral each victim or witness needs, using recorded assessment evidence
- Avoid withdrawn testimony, cracked trials and complaints that follow when witnesses are unprepared or victims hear nothing about their case
- Pass on the needs assessment form, familiarisation checklist, notification letters and referral directory to frontline colleagues

Conclusion:

Back at work, the participant gives the head of the victim support or witness care unit a Victim and Witness Care Service Plan that sets how needs are assessed, when victims are updated, how witnesses are prepared for court and which agencies receive referrals. Unit leads use it to allocate caseloads, agree special measures routines with prosecutors and courts and sign handover protocols with partner agencies. After the first trial supported under the plan, the unit should review witness attendance, feedback scores, notification timeliness and referral take-up.

Frequently Asked Questions FAQ:

What should participants know before the victim and witness support services course?

Participants should already contact victims or witnesses at work, in a prosecution, police, court or NGO setting. No prior assessment training is needed. Bringing an anonymised contact log, a witness letter or a referral form helps them apply the case study exercises.

How does victim and witness support services training differ from an investigative interviewing or child protection course?

It covers support and care rather than evidence gathering or abuse recognition: needs assessment, updates, court familiarisation, special measures, referrals and compensation. Interviewing courses focus on obtaining accounts, and child protection courses focus on recognising abuse and planning a child's safety.

Why do victim and witness support services use special measures for vulnerable witnesses?

Special measures such as screens, live link, intermediaries and pre-recorded evidence reduce fear and distress so that vulnerable or intimidated witnesses can give their best account. They protect the quality of testimony while respecting the fairness of the hearing.

What do participants take back from the victim and witness support services course?

Participants take back a Victim and Witness Care Service Plan for a case organisation, with a needs assessment form, a support tier matrix, a familiarisation checklist, notification letter templates, a referral directory and a service indicator set.
