New Saudi GTPL 2026: Government Tenders and Procurement Law Changes and Transition

Ref: 1185_6519 Date: 12 – 16 October 2026 Location: Dubai - Five-star CBD venue Fees: 19500 SAR

Technical depth: Conceptual · Practical mode: Case study

Introduction

Saudi Arabia's new Government Tenders and Procurement Law GTPL, approved by the Council of Ministers in August 2026, replaces the 2019 GTPL and takes effect 120 days after publication. Direct purchase and delegation limits, committee structures, standstill and review periods, change order limits and penalties all change on that date. Entities that treat the reform as a legal update find policies, approval matrices, templates and Etimad workflows still following the old law. This Core Concept course equips executives to direct an orderly transition, benchmarked against international procurement principles, and to leave with a New GTPL Transition Roadmap for their entity.

Course Objectives

- Explain the principal changes the new Saudi GTPL introduces over the 2019 law and their effect on the entity
- Benchmark the entity's procurement system against the UNCITRAL Model Law, the OECD principles and MAPS
- Direct the redesign of delegations, committee structures and procurement method rules to match the new GTPL thresholds
- Assess the compliance, integrity and payment risks that arise from higher limits and shorter review periods
- Decide how tenders in progress and live contracts are handled during the 120-day transition and after entry into force
- Approve a New GTPL Transition Roadmap with owners, milestones and control points

Target Audience

- Heads of Saudi government entities and their deputies who hold procurement approval authority
 - Executive directors of procurement, contracts and financial affairs
 - Chief financial officers and budget executives in public bodies
 - Executive heads of legal affairs and compliance who advise on procurement decisions
 - Executive leaders of state-owned companies that buy under government procurement rules

Skills You Will Gain

- Procurement Regulatory Interpretation
- Delegation of Authority Design
- Public Procurement Governance
- Procurement Integrity Oversight
- Regulatory Transition Planning
- Supplier Market Impact Assessment
- Procurement System Benchmarking

Why Attend This Course

- Return with a New GTPL Transition Roadmap that sets out what changes, who owns each change and by when
- Brief the leadership team and approval committees on the new Saudi procurement rules in plain terms
- Recognise where higher limits and shorter review periods create new integrity exposure
- Compare transition experience with executives from ministries, authorities and state-owned companies

Conclusion

The new Saudi GTPL delivers its intended efficiency only when policies, delegations, committees and controls change with it. This course moves from the comparison of the 2019 and 2026 laws, through the international frameworks that explain the reform's logic, to the operational changes, compliance risks and integrity controls executives must direct. The final day applies that material to realistic cases and to each participant's entity, producing a New GTPL Transition Roadmap ready for the leadership team's approval before the law takes effect.
