Saudi GTPL Implementing Regulations in Practice: Tender Preparation, Evaluation and Award

Ref: 1186_6532 Date: 10 – 14 May 2027 Location: Dubai - Five-star CBD venue Fees: 19500 SAR

Technical depth: Practitioner · Practical mode: Case study

Introduction

Government tenders in Saudi Arabia are cancelled, re-issued or challenged more often because of weak preparation than because of the market. Vague specifications, unweighted criteria, missing cost estimates and poorly minuted committee decisions all surface at award, when they are hardest to correct. This Core Concept course takes procurement staff and committee members through each step of the GTPL Implementing Regulations from planning to award on Etimad, including the 2026 GTPL changes, alongside international standards. Participants work on tender documents from several sectors and leave with a Tender Preparation and Award File for a procurement of their own.

Course Objectives

- Plan a procurement by confirming the need, the estimated cost and the procurement method permitted under the GTPL and its Implementing Regulations
- Prepare a conditions and specifications booklet with output-based specifications, a bill of quantities, local content requirements and a draft contract
- Design evaluation criteria, weights and a scoring matrix that are published on Etimad in advance and applied consistently
- Conduct offer opening, examination and arithmetical correction, apply the national product price preference, and record committee decisions in defensible minutes
- Identify abnormally low offers, conflicts of interest and grounds for grievance, and apply the corresponding controls
- Produce an award recommendation and a complete Tender Preparation and Award File ready for approval and audit

Target Audience

- Procurement officers responsible for preparing and issuing government tenders on Etimad
 - Members and secretaries of offer opening and offer examination committees
 - Technical staff who write specifications and scopes of work for tender documents
 - Contract and legal officers who draft conditions and review award decisions
 - Finance officers who prepare cost estimates and confirm budget availability
 - Internal control staff who review procurement files for completeness

- Procurement Planning
- Specification Writing
- Tender Documentation
- Bid Evaluation
- Committee Minuting
- Procurement Integrity Controls
- Grievance Handling
- Procurement Record-Keeping

Why Attend This Course

- Return to work with a Tender Preparation and Award File for a real procurement, reviewed by a mock committee
- Reduce clarifications, re-tenders and grievances by fixing the document weaknesses that cause them
- Explain and defend an award recommendation to approvers, auditors and unsuccessful bidders
- Compare tendering practice with procurement staff from other Saudi public bodies and sectors

Conclusion

A tender that is well prepared is usually straightforward to award, while a weak one carries its defects through to the contract. This course follows the sequence set by the GTPL Implementing Regulations, from procurement planning and document preparation on Etimad, through opening and examining offers with local content preferences, to the integrity risks, grievances and cancellation decisions that arise at award. The final day applies each step to case material and to a procurement of the participant's own, producing a Tender Preparation and Award File that can be used immediately.
